Mr. Robert Igo

Every day new scientific truth makes yesterday's knowledge obsolete and inadequate. As man reaches for the stars and probes the secret depths of the unseen world, the need for excellent science teaching grows more pronounced. The pupils of this school system are indeed fortunate to have as their instructor in physics, chemistry, and advanced science one so qualified as Mr. Robert Igo.

Active in his home community as a school director, serving his country as a naval reserve officer, and distinguishing his profession as a conscientious teacher, Mr. Igo has earned the respect of his students and his colleagues. For his service and achievements at a time when his talents are so desperately needed, we gratefully dedicate this issue of the Reflector to him.

time is right

Time has many faces. Clocks and calendars, lives and events mark its passage. Time is monotonous; time is frenzied. It is to be wasted or hoarded–it is abundant, or a priceless treasure. In this age of bewildering change, it is a sandpile, running through the fingers of our lives. The missile age has burst upon us, and man steps, tottering, toward space. Time has new meaning, added vitality, and growing importance. From our students increased devotion to the task of learning is implied. From our schools improved use of all our moments is demanded. In short–the Time is Right for Education.

JOINT BOARD OF EDUCATION

Mr. Richard Rodgers

The Ferndale-Dale Joint School System had an administrative and office staff much larger than that of former years. Completing his fifth year as Supervising Principal, Mr. S. Ray Grimm ably directed the intricate details of the new jointure. Serving as Assistant Supervising Principal, Dr. Russell Grumling concerned himself primarily with elementary education in the five districts. Mr. Elmer Berkebile, in his fourth year at Ferndale, accomplished a smooth transition for the enlarged and enriched high school program, while Mr. Richard Rodgers, in his first administrative capacity, served capably as Junior High Principal for the Dale Building.

The office personnel at Ferndale again included Miss Bonnie Ryan in the supervising principal's office, and Miss Arlene Ober in the high school office. Miss Sandra Cardellino was the secretary to the Assistant Supervising Principal in the Dale Buildings.

The Joint Board of Education for the Ferndale-Dale School district now consists of five men from each of the member districts. Mr. Philip Cook served as president, with Mr. Loren Blue as vice president. The treasurer of the board was Mr. Martin Hodos, Jr. Mr. George W.W. Jones, a non-member, was the secretary, and Mr. George Spence, the solicitor.

Meeting on the second Thursday of each month in the high school library, the board functioned successfully through the committee system. Each district was represented on every committee, with chairman elected for the 1959 calendar year. The board establishes school policies and carries out the mandates of the Pennsylvania School Code.

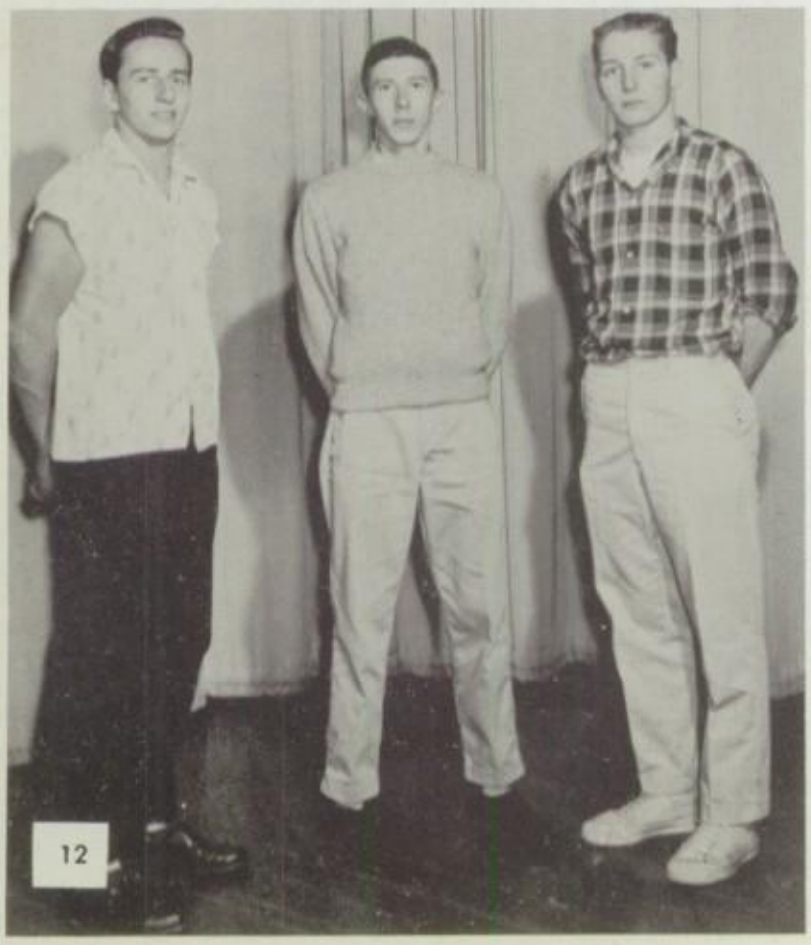
Here are our graduating Seniors

Senior Officers: Vice-president Mike Povich, President James Gindlesperger, and Secretary-Treasurer Joe Havrilla.



This senior class of 1958-59, with 115 members, is the largest to graduate from our school in many, many years. Through a new jointure with Dale and added emphasis upon an improved quality of education, these students reaped the early benefits of the new system. In order to better prepare the college-bound student, seniors could take a composition course entitled College English; commercial students were offered a new course in Clerical Office Practices. A limited number of girls in the commercial program participated in the cooperative training program with businesses, dividing their time between the school and the business office. A new course, Senior Science, for those who had taken little work previously in this field, was offered. The industrial arts program was also enriched through improved facilities for mechanical drawing and more emphasis upon the importance of the course.

This class has had its share of good students, good athletes, and good leaders. Their mark has been left in many ways upon the school and their classmates, and surely their time here has had maturing and broadening effects upon the members.

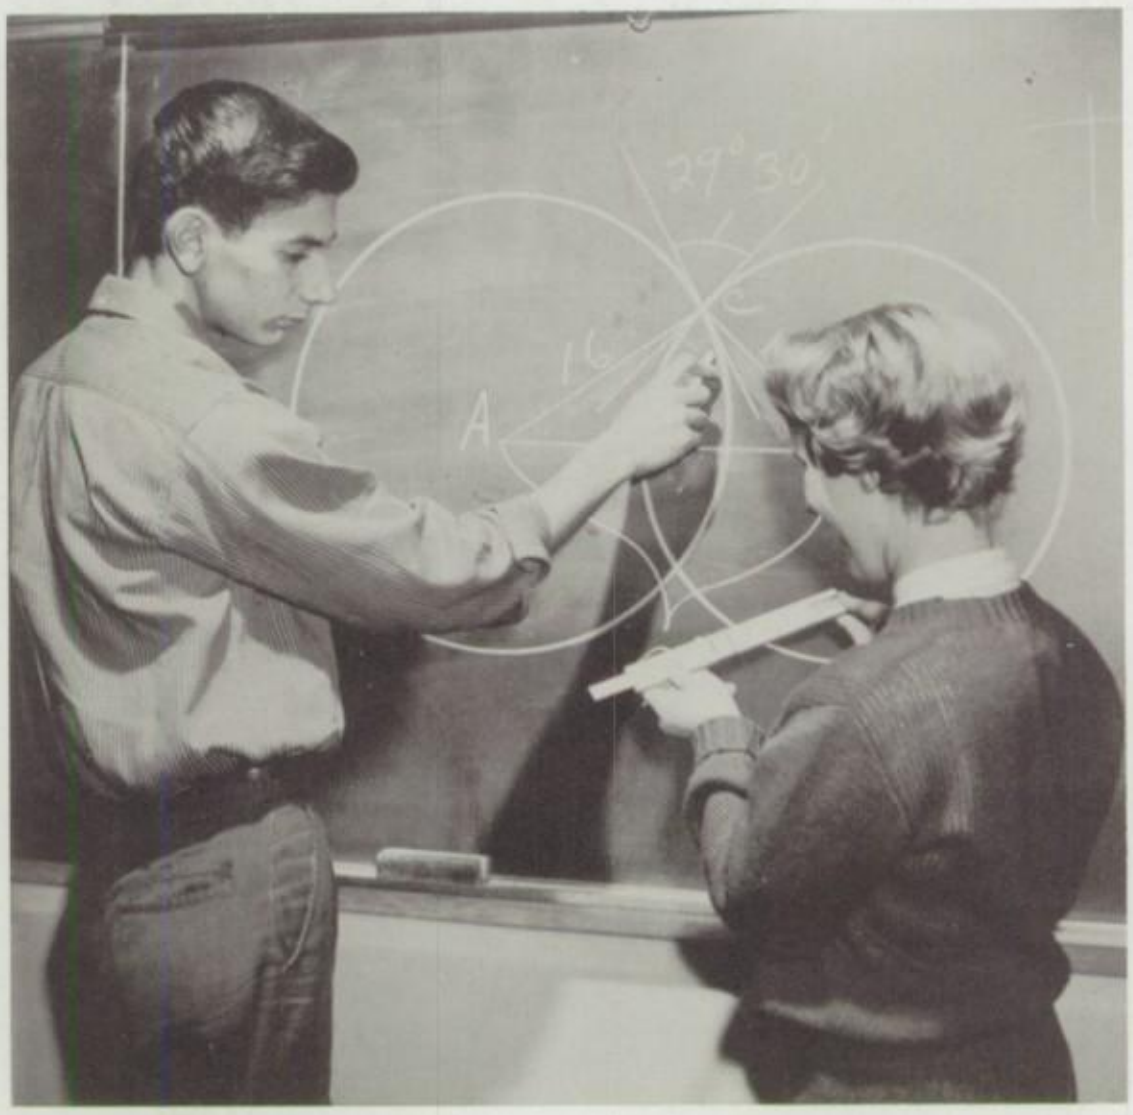
at work in classroom and lab . . .



Don Cammerata and Jeanie Grimm, senior academic students, team up on a trigonometry problem.

Work in the machine room on a comptometer or other business machines attracts Mary Ann Gomulka and Martha Bartis.

Chemistry laboratory provides experimental practice for Carol Bassett and Bill Gould.

Panel discussions in Problems of Democracy encourage freedom of expression and respect for the opinions of others. Here Linda Miller moderates a group which includes Glenn Sass, Darrell Carney, Mike Povich, and Jim Holsopple.

Fourth Row: Boyd Kaufman, Ken Dimpfl, George Jones, Tim Green, Norm Gavazzoni, Jay Knipple.

With one hundred forty members in the class, the Juniors of Ferndale-Dale also benefited from the new jointure. A wide variety of courses were offered for their selection, including electives such as driver education, special art, music theory, home economics, shop, and mechanical drawing. For all Juniors courses in English, American history, and health were required, while others depended upon the course of study pursued. Academic students filled out their program with physics, physiology, and plane geometry; commercial course adherents with bookkeeping, typing, and shorthand.

Big features of the class's efforts during the year were the magazine campaign and the highly successful Prom sponsored for the departing seniors. A fine play, coupled with school dances and a "fun" night, added to the fun and profit of this year.

As the high school student gets over those junior high years and stretches out toward the finish, he begins to conceive some idea for his future. Whether this choice lies in college training, business, or the field of factory and shop, our school seeks to equip him for it. Every sophomore must study world history, English, and biology. He may choose to take Latin II and algebra II, or sales and general business training, with exploratory bookkeeping and shorthand offered in the second semester. Home economics, art, and shop are available as electives.

And Our

Freshmen . . .

Freshmen make up one of the three divided classes in the new Ferndale-Dale jointure. While eighty-five members pursued their program at Ferndale, another fifty persons in the class were at work in Dale on the same subjects. In the new missile age in which we live, the foundations on which we mount our knowledge must be well built. Thus this freshman year in which politics, science, Latin, and algebra are introduced for the first time becomes even more significant.

All freshmen in this system must study English, civics and general science. Work in shop and home economics, plus art, guidance and music are also provided for everyone. Those students with an academic career in mind also take Latin and algebra, while others take general mathematics.

Freshman officers amuse themselves as they ponder some yearbook editor's madness. They are John Lech, vice president; Kent Trexler, president; Terri Cernak, secretary, and Sharon Hagerich, treasurer.

Another of our school system's divided class groups was the eighth grade, the smallest numerically of all our Jr.–Sr. high classes. With fifty-seven in Ferndale and forty-five in Dale, these students put the finishing touches on their preparation for real high school work. In addition to the opportunities in the classroom, the eighth grader found zest in sports, chorus and band, cheering, and general school activities of which he was a part. Instruction in arithmetic, English, history, geography, spelling, music, and art, plus gym, home economics and shop opportunities was provided for him. Serious students were recognized for their achievement by earning a place on the honor roll published every report period.

If most of the present seventh grade remains in our school system for the next several years, the class will be one of the largest in history. This year there were one hundred forty, with ninety-four in Ferndale and forty-six at Dale. This large group went through the transition period from grammar school to junior high school, studying and reviewing much of what they learned before. Courses in geography, world history, English, spelling, and arithmetic were taken, while gym, home economics, shop, music, and art were also experienced. Similar studies and opportunities were available for the Dale and Ferndale members of the class. Good scholars began to stand-out as more emphasis was placed upon top quality work.

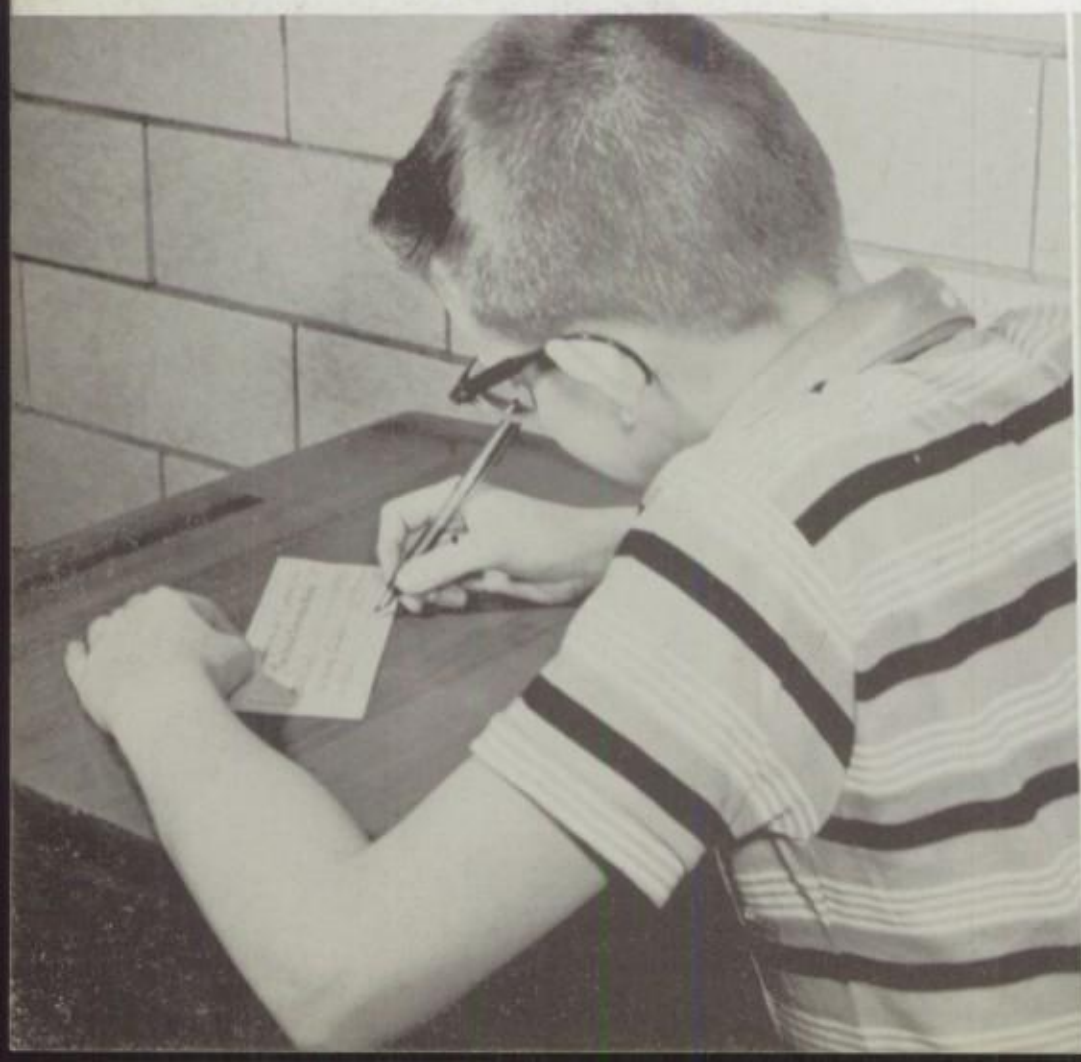
Geography is an important part of the seventh grade curriculum. Here Bonita Koontz and Bill Bennett "pour over" a map, hunting for those far away places which Mr. Lesneski always dreams up.

The last year of arithmetic for an eighth grader gives review of all the previous learning and some practical applications, too. Lance Stuver demonstrates how his class learned to write checks.



Wider and wider understanding and use of the English language is sought in all our grades. In this instance Robert Alt and Kathy Johnston study the Junior Word Wealth series for vocabulary growth.

Music appreciation is encouraged by the use of good recordings and fine sound reproduction. Seventh graders Sally Claycomb and Larry Varner prepare for a moment of inspiring music.

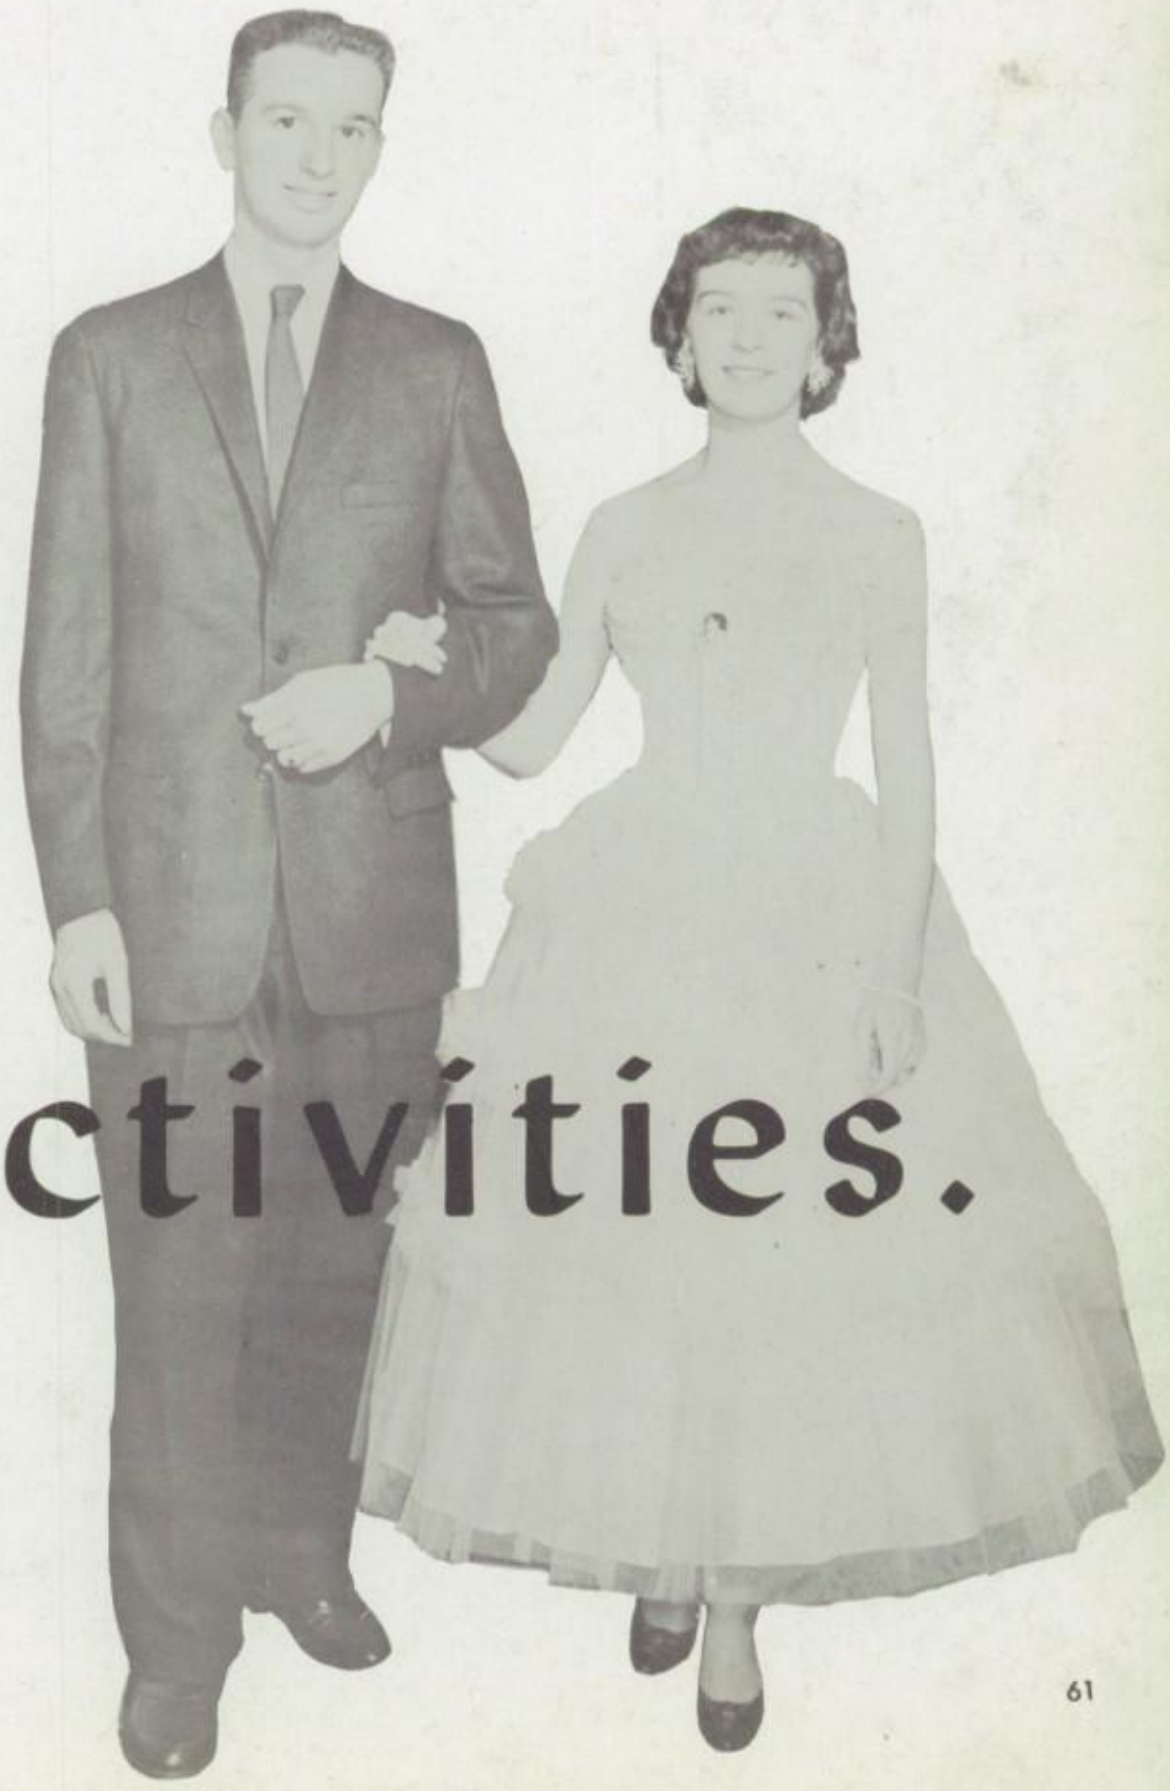
Time on our hands. . . for Activities.

While we are emphasizing in our theme for this volume of the Reflector that the time is right for education, we insist that good education must include more than books, laws, and teachers. Thus our students must find time on their hands for zestful relief from school formality.

Leisure can be pure idleness, or it can be given over to gainful experiences. Our school has provided rich opportunities outside the regular classroom for those with an inclination to accept them. Journalism, art, music, career guidance, and school and community service are included in the plan. In this section the Reflector pictures the people who participated and reviews their endeavors.



To provide a student voice . . .

The Ferndale-Dale Student Council meets weekly with Mr. Allison to discuss matters concerning the student body in general. Each week the suggestions from the suggestion box placed in the main lobby are evaluated. This year the Student Council, together with other school clubs, has set as a goal the replacement of the present fountains with electric water coolers. The Education Committee who appraised our school last year suggested that these be changed.

The council is composed of a delegate and an alternate from each homeroom. In addition, this year for the first time, members-at-large, chosen by the faculty from the junior and senior classes, were added to the organization.

The Key Club was distinct from all other clubs in our school. It was the only club which was strictly a service organization, and the only one sponsored by an international organization outside the school.

Under the guidance of Mr. Francis Lesneski the Key Club was able to raise and contribute seventy-five dollars to the math department and one hundred dollars toward the publication of the Reflector.

The Key Club was sponsored by the Johnstown Kiwanis Club which provided help and advice in the planning of the programs. Key Club members were also given a look at the workings of the Kiwanis Club through weekly luncheons at the Fort Stanwix Hotel.

As a result we have purchased a superior cover and a bigger book for the same price to our subscribers.

Credit belongs to a faithful staff who sacrificed time freely for the production. Francis Bagnato and Neil Ober completed their fourth year of service for the yearbook staff, with Neil as editor-in-chief and Francis as business manager and staff photographer. FUTURE TEACHER OFFICERS
Jeep James, program chairman; Linda Miller, vice president; Mr. Hunter, advisor; Marsha Keiper, secretary-treasurer; and Joyce Statler, president.

Due to the enlarged enrollment at Ferndale-Dale this year, our Future Teachers of America Club became one of the largest organizations of the school. President Joyce Statler and advisor Mr. Hunter capably directed the group through an informative program.

Club periods were devoted to various phases of teaching in order to acquaint members with facts concerning their future. Panelists, guest speakers, movies, and club discussions depicted such things as college costs, vital fields of teaching, and discipline in the classroom.

Many of the students were given an opportunity to get the feel of the classroom while filling in for absent grade-school teachers. Contributing their talents to the Schoolmaster's Calendar in February, members of the Club put on a television show which told of the purpose of the club, of its past history, and of the goals of individual students belonging to the group.

of future careers . . .

The Future Nurses Club, although in effect only four years, has grown into an active, interested group of thirty-one girls from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes. The purpose of this club was to interest students in personal and community health; to encourage them in finding out what nursing requires, and what it offers; to help them decide wisely about professional or practical nursing as their career. While finding out about the nursing services in their community, members also discovered many new facts about the other health personnel and facilities which serve them. Club advisors were Mrs. Ling and Mr. Allison.

The Courier, our student newspaper, was published eight times this year by those among our students who were interested in journalism. With a larger circulation than any previous year, the Courier made greater use of photographs and caricatures.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Carolyn Huber, the Courier was edited by Bill Gould and Nancy Hockensmith. Mrs. Dorothy Christensen was in charge of subscriptions and other business. Certain staff members of the Courier were in the honorary Quill and Scroll Society, while the paper belonged to the Pennsylvania School Press Association.

High point for Courier staffers was a high school newspaper conference held in the fall at Cresson High School.

Under the direction of Mrs. Schrum the Commercial Club finished its second year of operation. The seniors in this group act as secretaries to the teachers and learn to operate the various business machines. Previously the club admitted only seniors, but this year juniors have been permitted to enter during the second semester. The club has tried to make its members better prepared to enter the business world. Through their actual experience as secretaries, the girls are helped toward this goal. The reward for those that have worked faithfully in the club should be a better opportunity in the business field.

The purpose of this organization was to create school spirit for the athletic functions of the school. Supervised by the officers and their advisor, Miss Dorothy Lance, these girls have done a fine job. The club even traveled by bus to several basketball games away from home to help cheer the squad to victory. New shakers and booster pins were obtained by the club this year, and beanies were also ordered for all members. Activities included sponsoring the bonfire and cheering at the district cheerleading contest. Posters made by the members announcing the coming games promoted enthusiasm and spirit throughout the school.

F-CLUB

Under the direction of Mr. Hyland, the F-Club experienced a very successful year. During the first semester the club spent a lot of time interpreting and improving its constitution. Specifications for awards were thoroughly discussed, and many of them were changed. Mike Povich and Sue Sandusky reigned at the annual Turkey Trot, sponsored by the club. After football season, 19 new members were initiated into the organization. Selling candy and providing parking areas at the Minstrel helped the boys make money for next year's athletic program.

Again this year our branch of the Y.W.C.A. organization has had a successful year. Under the guidance of Miss Rager and Mrs. Schrum, the Senior Y-Teens held a successful Christmas dance while the Junior Y-Teens under the direction of Mrs. Nycum, held the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance. Another project of both Junior and Senior Y-Teens was to decorate the school for the Yule-Tide season. Some of the objectives that this club attempts to teach its members are leadership and co-operation with others, and growth in the knowledge of God. Many of our girls have received benefits from participation in Y-Teen activities.

The Ferndale-Dale High School Band, under the expert leadership of Mr. Williams, had a fine year. They could be seen going through their paces during half-time at football games. Our high-stepping majorettes highlighted most of the shows with their dancing and baton-twirling. Following the football season, the band got to work on music for a spring concert. Some thought was given to having two concerts, one in the mid-winter and another in the spring. Although the band will lose a great many senior members, it is looking forward to a much larger enrollment next year with the addition of Dale students from the junior band.

The Senior Play, "Arsenic and Old Lace," was presented in Ferndale-Dale High School in December. The three act comedy, a Broadway success in 1941, deals with the life of the Brewster family. Mortimer Brewster finds that his spinster aunts, Abby and Martha, are poisoning lonely old men, and that Teddy, his brother, is burying them in the cellar. Teddy thinks that he is Teddy Roosevelt and that the bodies are those of yellow fever victims. The plot is complicated by Jonathan Brewster's return home after his escape from a prison for the criminally insane. Elaine Harper, the daughter of the neighboring Rev. Dr. Harper, provides the romantic atmosphere. Mortimer decides that the best thing for every one would be to commit his aunts and Teddy to Happydale, a mental institution run by a lonely old man, Mr. Witherspoon. This provides a different plot for a hilarious comedy.

"I thought I'd seen my last glass of elderberry wine". "No, here it is." Carol Shaffer, Jeep James, and Don Cammerata.

"Get out of here! Do you want to be poisoned? Do you want to be murdered?" Bill Craig, Jim Gindlesperger, Bruno Schwarz.

A Night to Remember . . .

Last year's prom followed the traditional pattern of a junior-senior class dinner at Sunnehanna Country Club, after which a beautiful dance was held. Occurring early in May, the evening was one filled with excitement and happiness for all. The juniors thus gave a royal send-off to their departing schoolmates.

Top Picture: Do you remember the excitement outside the clubhouse as each girl arrived? Their gowns, flowers, and hair styles were so lovely, and those gentlemen were so perfect.

Middle Picture: And then we entered that elegant lobby, full of sweet smells and subdued bustle; the moment of our young lives had finally arrived.

Bottom: As we waited for dinner to be announced we just marveled at how different everyone looked. Was it possible that these were our classmates of this afternoon?

describes our Jr.-Sr. Prom . . .

Top: Dinner was perfection itself. Everyone laughed and joked. We passed our program books for autographs, and gazed around at the beauty of it all.

Circles: The program was so nice! Choral groups sang, nervous class presidents said hellos and goodbyes, and school officials said so many complimentary things about us.

Below: After dinner came the soft lights, sweet music, and walks on the veranda and lawn. We sat at tables and socialized; we danced and danced.

Below: To preserve this delightful moment for our memories, many of us were photographed with our escorts. For truly, this was a night to remember!

Time Out . . . for Sports

While the climate of public opinion is right for improved education, caution must be used to prevent all else that is good in our school programs form being cast aside. When the so-called "frills" come under discussion, a school's athletic operations are questioned. Our school has adopted a reasonable approach to the problem by making available a wide variety of competitive sports, without making participation and excellence in their performance a top-heavy symbol of success.

We try to win. We are proud of our boys in victory or defeat. But the chance to join and belong to a team effort seems more important than outstanding victories. Thus, we are able to say that emphasis on top quality education and occasional "time outs" for competitive sports are in complete harmony in a free society. Physical fitness and team effort still occupy a necessary place in the preparation of our students for a happy future.

Dramatic pre-game huddle at the Point Stadium.

Finishing their season with a fine record of five wins, one loss, and a tie, the Yellow Jacket junior-varsity demonstrated that its members will soon be heard from.

After losing the opener to Conemaugh Twp. by a narrow 19-13 margin, the squad marched to consecutive wins over Somerset, 12-0; United, 13-0; and Catholic, 6-0. Adams held the Junior Jackets to a scoreless dead-lock, and then our gang polished off Franklin, 25-6, and Westmont by 13-7.

Coached by Mr. Rigby, the boys showed spirit and drive often missing in recent years.

Bobby Thomas on a keeper, seeks to turn the end with Larry Scruggs trailing him.

The story of the varsity football season is one of boom and bust. Beginning with the tougher opponents and ending with the easier, our squad showed a record of five straight beatings followed by four straight victories.

Opening the campaign with a fifty-man group, including seven lettermen, the Jackets lost a 13-7 heart-breaker to Richland, who then went on to a second unbeaten season. Thomas ran 25 yards for our touchdown.

United Joint squeaked past our team with a 12-7 performance. The only Ferndale score came on a Thomas to Garner pass. These close ones were then followed by three thorough drubbings for our lads at the hands of Conemaugh Twp., Westmont and Conemaugh.

Just when the season looked like the most dismal in years, the team took an abrupt about face and began pouring it on. Swarming all over South Fork, the Jackets turned in a stellar passing attack for a 32-7 victory. They followed this with a 26-6 rout of Adams Twp., and a landslide win over Boswell, 40-0.

In the season's finale Ferndale surprised everyone with the ease of their 40-7 steamroller victory. After Catholic had scored first, the Stingers made a regular parade into touchdown land.

The Junior High gridders finished their season with the best record in recent years. Losing only to Conemaugh Twp. by a 7-6 score, and being tied by Somerset, 6-6, the squad turned in four fine victories over Catholic, Franklin, Richland, and United.

Coach Nyle Hershberger, assisted by Coach Joe Dobis, brought his boys through in a 19-6 win over Catholic, followed by a 24-18 thriller over Richland. Following the loss to Conemaugh Twp., the Little Stingers closed out their season with a 25-6 win over Franklin and a hard-fought 6-0 triumph over United Joint.

Our varsity basketball squad enjoyed a fairly successful 1958-59 season by winning fifteen of twenty-two games. In compiling this record the team finished third in the Tri-County and Mountain League standings. As usual the Jackets entered the St. Francis tournament in post-season play.

Our hoopsters got off to a disappointing start by dropping their opener to all-conquering Richland, after which they racked up five wins in a row before Indiana's Tri-County champs applied the brakes to our longest streak of the season.

Coach Dick Rigby used a starting line-up composed of four seniors and a junior. Jay Garner and Mike Povich operated as forwards, with Dick Wissinger at center and Bill Jeroy and Bob Thomas holding down the guard slots. Thomas was the only underclassman on the starting five. Good bench strength was provided by Steve McClintock, Glen Sass, and Bill Kesslak. High scorer for the season was "Natch" Wissinger with 370 points, followed by Povich with 272. All of the regular starting five weighed in with over 200 markers.

Some of the highlights of the season were: twin victories over Catholic High; a surprisingly easy 90-40 victory over Westmont on their home court; and a return-match trouncing of Ebensburg after a disastrous earlier loss to the Red Devils. Great team play, featuring the fast break, a full-court press, and general hustle, made the season an exciting and gratifying one.

The Junior Varsity of Ferndale-Dale experienced the finest season in many years, winning nineteen and dropping only three. Coach Herb Pfuhl's squad dropped their opener to Richland and then won five in a row before losing to Indiana in overtime. The only other loss came at the hands of Westmont Hilltop in another very close game. The Little Stingers avenged all three of these losses and climaxed the year by winning their last ten games. Bob Barnes, a sophomore, ran away with scoring honors for the year with 346 points.

Starting off the season with only two returning lettermen, Mr. Hershberger built the little Jackets into a top-flight basketball team. The Stingers paid little attention to the lack of experience as they compiled a record of 9 wins and 7 losses. This record was good for a third-place tie in the Conemaugh Valley Jr. High League. Jim Jeroy was the top scorer on the team with 166 points.

When spring arrives . . . our boys turn out for golf . . . track. . . baseball.

Coach Nyle Hershberger's thinclads opened their 1958 season with a losing effort in a dual meet with Somerset. First place finishes by Scruggs in the mile, Jeroy in the pole-vault, and by the mile-relay team brightened the picture, however.

In the Tri-County meet at United our squad found the going very rough, grabbing only a second and fourth place in the entire contest. Following this meet, a triangular event against Westmont and Windber found the Jackets edging the Hilltoppers for second place. Again Scruggs and Jeroy won their specialties.

The Pitt Center meet at Cochran produced a number of medal winners among our boys, but an also-ran place among the schools entered. Jay Garner earned a second in the high jump and third in the broad. The Mountain Conference meet, also held at United, was another unfruitful team effort, but Scruggs, Garner, Sass, Jeroy, and Thomas earned points for our school.

The 1958 Ferndale baseball squad, coached by Mr. Hyland, compiled a record of four victories and six defeats. Competing again in the Tri-County League, the team dropped their opener to Indiana, 12-2. In a free-hitting struggle on our field, our batsmen took Franklin into camp by a 14-7 count. Laurel Valley then shut out the Stingers by a 5-0 score, but our gang bounced back again to shellack Conemaugh, 13-8.

The next four games found the Jackets losing their batting eyes, as they dropped decisions to Westmont, Richland, and two to Johnstown.

The Yellow Jackets finished their schedule in fine style by beating Richland, 7-2.

Ray Rucosky was the team's leading hitter with a .400 batting average. The pitchers who won games for the Stingers were: Rich Ziants, two victories, and one each by Terry Kegg and Jay Garner.
